Lavenson Design is focused on residential architecture, delivering beautiful buildings and spaces through attention to detail and creative insight. Since 1985, the firm has produced award-winning work that is artistic, innovative, and practical, informed by extensive remodeling and new construction experience. Lavenson projects balance editing and invention, seeking elegant results refined at deeper architectural levels that transcend style, respond to the essence of a place and stand the test of time.

OPPOSITE: A home in the Central Valley was edited to open the interior spaces for light and views while respecting its mid-century heritage and comfort.

ABOVE, LEFT: A top-floor remodel transformed a 1940's ranch-style house on a Bay Area hillside into a set of light-filled modern boxes. The sloping roof and attic were removed to gain interior height. The artist owner chose a bold yam color to be threaded through the project.
